IIRSM Health & Safety for Senior Management

Description

This Health & Safety for Senior Management course is tailored specifically for Senior Executives and Board Members, with the view to understand how good safety practice contributes directly to service delivery, or to profitably, or both. We also look at a key concern for Senior Managers; dealing with health & safety management systems in the broader Corporate Risk Management or Corporate Governance context.

We pride ourselves in specialising in this vital area of safety and business risk management – working at Board/Senior Management levels with many large organisations in both the private and public sectors.

These sessions, always tailored to specific local ‘politics’ and key risk concerns are only presented by Human Applications’ most senior consultants, each with extensive previous practical experience at this level of management.

Aims

Delegates will understand their legal role in health & safety management, identify opportunities for improvement, and will be able to plan to achieve those gains to become a better safety leader
